Its distinctive character, single material pieces, both in leather and fabric, allows it to be placed alongside a large variety of tables, which are not necessarily modern.
When all is said and done, its lines fluctuate between memory and modernity, and its volumes between bulkiness and slenderness. The cover is removable, padded with a single piece of stamped foam, and comes in two different sizes. The larger version can be fitted with armrests.

An evergreen seat that is much appreciated for its timeless design and wide range of covers and leg finishes, which are neutral when achieved with painted sheet metal, or more traditional when oak veneered. Comfort is ensured by the padded seat with springs and by the flexible backrest. When fitted with armrests, it looks like an armchair that, however, maintains the same features.

YJ-030

The design allows both an erect posture and a more relaxed position by resting on one of the wings of the armrest. The formal balance results from the constant thickness of the body and by the profile of the seat, which is sinuous at the top and ends in the light steel frame. Removable covers with a metal zip on the back, which becomes a decorative motif.

The small armchair is named after the ancient armour worn by samurai warriors, made up of painted and decorated thick leather plates that covered and protected the hero's body.

YJ-A20-2

The armchair is characterized by slim volumes, flowing surfaces, sartorial seams and a fully integrated cushion. Available in two versions - one with a high back that extends as a headrest and a low version. Both models find completion in a footrest. The revolving base is available in two versions: a four-spoked one for both seats and a disc shaped alternative, which is reserved only for the high back model. The contemporary outline of the chair seems to remind one of a smiling face, almost an invitation to take a seat and enjoy a moment of relax.

The armchair is characterized by slim volumes, flowing surfaces, sartorial seams and a fully integrated cushion. Available in two versions - one with a high back that extends as a headrest and a low version. Both models find completion in a footrest. The revolving base is available in two versions: a four-spoked one for both seats and a disc shaped alternative, which is reserved only for the high back model. The contemporary outline of the chair seems to remind one of a smiling face, almost an invitation to take a seat and enjoy a moment of relax.

Terminal 1 witnesses this with its fluid shapes, balance between seats and metal support, contrast between glossy and matt finish that enhance the sophistication of its monochrome image. With the dual function of armchair and chaise longue, it possesses the basic features of a sculpture that seems to float.

Shaped by an organic development inspired by the form of a soy bean, a typical ingredient in Oriental cuisine, Eda-Mame is a furnishing element with a strong impact created by a sculptural design that can give great incisiveness to a space. A single object that is a fusion of three types of seating - high-back chair, easy chair and ottoman. Its threefold nature lends Eda-Mame extreme versatility in both residential and public settings, and can also highlight areas for co-working, passage and short stays, like hotel lobbies. Made of moulded foam, Eda-Mame is upholstered in a stretch fabric with a light stitching. The support base is made of crosspieces with rounded steel feet connected to each other by a bar, all in pewter painted finish.

A comfortable hollow shape, in two sizes, stands on a series of bases that create the overall personality. The combination of these elements produces a family of armchairs that can be placed in various areas of the home. Everything issues from long-term experimentation centred on the production technology of thermoformed leather, starting from a plastic body that is inserted into a cold polyurethane foam mould, thus obtaining elasticity and comfort.

The overlapping structures of the seat, back and head are held together by an invisible mechanism. An ottoman serves as a footrest, with a round base and a curved wooden upholstered seat. It bears the name of the Indian region with breathtaking views of the Himalayas and aspires to be, according to the designers, "a refuge from the world, a place to contemplate and read."

I sigh because in the past centuries people used to lead a comfortable and free life, Have leisure time, pursue poetic life, and enjoy all beautiful things. Science then let civilization and elegance both fall down. When money can buy comfortable life, What fill people's life more is luxury, extravagance, novelty and tastelessness.
